Did You Know...

...that the American Saddlebred Horse Association (ASHA) gives out four $5,000 scholarships each year to worthy junior members? Over $200,000 has thus far been given throughout the years and we are working on increasing the amount that can be awarded.

...that ASHA has well over 50 Youth Clubs scattered all over the country? If you have a riding program and don't have a club, join the fun!

...that youth compete for ASHA Academy Awards all year, and receive their ribbons at the Annual Youth Conference? If you have Academy riders, check out the program and encourage your riders to enroll. It provides them with a goal to achieve.

...that ASHA Youth Clubs raised over $30,000 last year for charity? This money comes from all types of projects, from bake sales, to car washes, to selling carrots at horse shows.

...that ASHA is phasing in a membership renewal that will be at the same time for all members? Members will also be receiving a new and improved plastic membership card, and while it is new and improved, it actually costs less than our previous card!

...that the ASHA Sport Horse Committee has created an incentive program for horses that compete in disciplines outside our normal show ring? This will reward horses with a monetary amount based on points. A lot of energy coming from this committee!

...that the American Saddlebred and Half Saddlebred are competing and doing well in almost all of the disciplines outside the show ring? Saddlebreds are athletes inside OR outside of the show ring.

...that ASHA is working with UPHA and the Hackney Horse and Pony Society on a project with Equestrian Life that will make its appearance in late summer and early fall? This is a first for all three organizations, to work together and show our wonderful animals to a market completely outside our breeds. The emphasis will be on getting people interested in the breeds for a multitude of purposes, from showing, to trail riding, to competing in the various disciplines in which both the American Saddlebred and the Hackney Horse and Pony are growing in popularity.

...that the American Saddlebred Registry (ASR) is offering a great opportunity to get your older horse registered or transferred during May and June? During May and June of 2011, registration and transfer late fees have been rolled back so that the cost of registering or transferring a horse will be the same as if the documentation had been submitted on time (details on pages 54 and 56). So don't miss out on this opportunity, it will not be repeated soon!

...that 2011 is the year the Annual High Point Award replaces the ASHA Regional Championship Shows? It is an all-encompassing program that includes all divisions and disciplines. This is the work of the Charter Club Council and was adopted by the Board of Directors in July of 2010.

...that the ASHA Grand National program is being reviewed with a focus on reviving its popularity with owners and breeders? Stay tuned, it is heading in a direction that is both exciting and financially rewarding.

...that ASHALive.net continues to receive hits on the 2010 Kentucky State Fair? The Video On Demand (VOD) has been viewed continuously since last August, with no let-up in activity.

...that if you are an ASHA Charter Club or a member doing an American Saddlebred promotion, you can obtain from ASHA the new promotional DVD that debuted at the 2010 World Equestrian Games, as well as other great promotional materials for the breed?

...that the ASHA CH-EQ Award system for equitation horses is up and running and many applications are being received? This is a wonderful way to honor an equitation horse, and also to allow breeders to track the bloodlines of some of our breed's best thinking and athletic horses.

...that the March issue of Horse Illustrated had an article on Saddle Seat riding, and that an American Saddlebred from Saddlebred Rescue was featured, and that the popular magazine

Southern Living is doing a feature in August on Saddle Seat riding?

...that there are new Master classes within the American Saddlebred division rules, for amateur riders 50 and over? Several shows have already incorporated the classes into their schedules, with the expectation that these classes will grow in popularity.

...that in January at the 2011 USEF Convention, the American Saddlebred and its owners and trainers were very well represented? Don Harris won the coveted Lifetime Achievement Award, CHSprinkles was a very popular representative for the Horse of the Year Award, and Mary Anne Cronan won the McDevitt Award. Throughout the Convention, highlights from the World's Championship Horse Show that were shown on USEFnetwork entertained Convention attendees.

...that ASHA and ASR are both alive and well and moving forward, with a lot of enthusiasm from volunteers and Directors who are dedicated to the breed? Join us!

ASHA youth clubs raised over $30,000 last year for charity and volunteered their time in numerous ways. Shown here are the Abby Road Riders making blankets for the needy.

2011 Art Auction to be Held at Museum's Showplace for Saddlebreds

After a one year hiatus, the American Saddlebred Museum's Art Auction is returning, but will be held in a new location. On Saturday July 16, the auction will begin at 12 noon, at the new Showplace for Saddlebreds at the Kentucky Horse Park. Sixty-six lots of a variety of items will be sold during the early afternoon.

Offered in the 2011 auction are seven original George Ford Morris works, five bronze sculptures and a set of antique miniature Vienna bronzes, nine lots of historic books including seven of the extremely rare Herbert J. Krum "Short Stories," nine original paintings by contemporary artists, several unique pieces of decorated furniture, seven George Ford Morris posters or lithographs, four original works by three noncurrent artists, six antiques (five lithographs and a shelf clock), six attractive and unusual collectibles, two lots of historic Saddlebred items, a vintage side saddle, and a textured and sculpted 3-D picture. "There is definitely something to appeal to everyone's tastes and liking in this auction," says Tolley Graves, Auction Coordinator.

A Preview party will again be held, which will feature a light lunch, refreshments and spirits. It will begin at 10:30 AM on Saturday and will continue through the auction, approximately 2 PM. The party is being generously sponsored this year by Elizabeth Deknatel, Carol Hillenbrand and Kenny and Ceil Wheeler.

As in past years, if you are unable to be on site but would like to participate, telephone bids will be accepted with advance arrangements. Everyone attending the Lexington Junior League Horse Show is invited to participate in this one-of-a-kind event. To receive an auction catalog, arrange for a telephone bid, or inquire about the auction, call Tolley Graves at (859) 259-2746. Items can also be previewed online at www.asbmuseum.org.

Victory Pass Raffle Winners Announced

Congratulations to Barbara Woods of Land O' Lakes, Florida! She was winner of the Grand Prize package in the Victory Pass Raffle Drawing. She will enjoy a complimentary week at the 2011 World's Championship Horse Show! That stay includes 7 nights at the Crowne Plaza Hotel, $500 food voucher at the Crowne Plaza, 4 lower level box seats for each performance and a VIP parking pass!

Phyllis Brookshire of Raleigh, North Carolina, was winner of the Second Prize, which is use of a golf cart for the week of the show. Tickets were drawn on Friday, April 15 at the Kentucky Spring Premier Horse Show. Congratulations to both winners, and a sincere thank you to each person who purchased tickets. The proceeds from the raffle support the mission of the American Saddlebred Museum.

Library Receives Gift

The Museum's Library received a wonderful gift in February. Well-known breeder and historian, Louise Gilliland, donated a photo index system that enables users to research exactly where photos, articles and data on horses, owners and farms can be found in magazines from 1997-2001. This database is invaluable to the Museum's curator when researching for exhibits, as well as to Museum members seeking information in the Library. Gilliland has been a long time researcher of the breed and previously donated hard copies of her sales catalog indexes from 1980 through 1995, along with hard copies of magazine photo indexes from 2006 to mid 2007. These tools save countless hours of research time and are instrumental in helping to preserve the history of our breed. Thank you so much, Louise!

Want to get an AOT group started? Here's how!

Contributed by Patti Lovelace, Charter Club Council (Ambassador/AOT)

Starting an Amateur/Owner/Trainer (AOT) group within your Charter Club can be a great benefit to amateurs, professionals, and newcomers to the American Saddlebred. An amateur may have a horse at home that they feel would not be competitive in a Show Pleasure class, but may be very competitive in an AOT Show Pleasure class. A professional may be able to sell a horse to someone who has the facilities and is capable of training their horse at home. A newcomer may not be able to afford a $50,000 show horse, but can afford that $10,000 show horse, which they can show in an AOT class. Or, if all they want to do is trail ride, a professional may sell a $2,500 horse that just wasn't destined for the show ring, to a family who wants to enjoy their Saddlebred at home.

All of these things are possible with the American Saddlebred, and amateurs who keep their horses at home play a major role in making this happen.

The American Saddlebred Association of the Carolinas (ASAC) AOT Club plays a major role in the Carolinas, with the promotion of the breed, educational clinics, helping with the horse shows, and anywhere else we may be needed. We stable together, share expenses, and help each other prepare for shows. We are a standing committee under the umbrella of ASAC but we are self-supported. We raise money to sponsor our classes, make donations to Saddlebred Rescue, manage ASAC-sponsored winter tournaments, and even provide a continental breakfast every morning at the ASAC Horse Show.

Here is a brief "FAQ" that may prove helpful in starting an AOT group in your Charter Club.

What is an AOT? An AOT is an amateur who trains his or her own horse at home. The owner is in complete control of all of the horse's training and care.

This sounds like me. How can I get and AOT Club Started? Designate a contact person and post flyers around horse shows. Share your mission with interested members and set up meetings at each show. Organize a group of "take charge" volunteers and elect club officers. Publish bylaws to keep club members and activities organized and on track. Approach show managers and organizers about adding AOT classes to their show schedules. Let the show managers know that the club will sponsor the classes. Spread the word!! Let members and friends know about the shows adding classes, and encourage entries and support. Numbers will speak loudly.

We are off to a good start. How do we keep the club going? Promotion: Use horse shows, websites, email campaigns and other forms of outreach to share the club mission and grow membership.

Education: Organize events like professional clinics, barn tours, and workshops for members to learn and improve their skills.

Fundraisers: Come up with fun and creative ways to raise the money needed to sponsor classes and club events.

Support: Encourage club members to help each other both at home and at the horse shows. Reach out to supportive professionals and amateurs.

We now have a logo that we are printing on tote bags and caps to give out to the first place winners in the AOT classes that we sponsor. We are also selling these promotional items as a fundraiser. We are firm believers in PROMOTION, PROMOTION, PROMOTION! We want people to buy Saddlebreds, and not say "I love the breed but can't afford one because they are too expensive, and I have to keep it in training." This is a breed for every discipline from the show ring to the back yard trail horse.

If you need help starting an AOT club within your Charter Club, and would like more information, please contact me. I will be glad to help you get started.

— Patti Lovelace, Charter Club Council AOT Representative, redoakfarmasb@windstream.net

Saddlebred Beginnings

BY JEN CORCORAN

“Well, good morning, Kiddo!” my Saddlebred mentor greeted me, her faded eyes crinkling up at me with a tired smile. “I was just about to take Red out for a ride. Why don’t you saddle up your mare and come along?”

It was a familiar invitation, and one I rarely declined in my childhood. My friend K.J. “Johnny” Hanamann sold me my first horse, the mare that fastened me irrevocably to this breed, and it was Johnny who influenced me to continue my youthful horse obsession into adulthood. Without her presence in my life, I would most certainly not have become so actively involved with Saddlebreds.

Johnny was a tiny little spitfire of a woman who barely reached five feet tall, but filled in the space with a very strong personality. Like the other kids at the barn, I both admired and feared her so much that I lived to please her, striving to clean the most stalls, sweep the unreachable cobwebs, and groom to the highest shine. She would then come behind us and instruct how the stalls could have been picked better, point out the missed cobwebs, and make us undo the silly braided manes (“Do you want her to rip out a hunk of mane when she gets it caught outside somewhere?!”). Johnny was always urging us to use our heads, especially around the horses. She had a big wooden sign posted at the end of the aisle that read: “THIMK!” and it took me awhile to understand its purposely-misspelled meaning. Often rather than speak, if she disapproved of our actions (like leaving a horse unattended in the cross ties) she’d pull us along by the arm to the plank of wood with the big block letters and wordlessly jab her work-worn finger up at that sign, urging us to “Think!”

For her size, Johnny was a formidable horsewoman. Throughout my years at Lone Oak Stable, she housed many Saddlebreds, including two stallions, both of whom clearly loved and respected their tiny owner. She would trailer her favorite, Clancy, the sire of my mare, to her northern Wisconsin cottage on the occasional weekend and ride him bareback in the lake. We shared many rides together, and she'd verbally walk me through the pedigrees of the top horses of the day; <sup>CH</sup>Sky Watch, <sup>CH</sup>Imperator, and Chubasco were her three favorites. She was something of a pedigree fanatic, and spoke of the leading stallions of that time with an almost tangible reverence. I even have an old black and white photograph of Johnny standing next to Vanity's Sensation of Crebilly, taken when, on a drive across country, she stopped at a beautiful barn that turned out to be the home of the famous stallion. In the picture she stands beside him, her hand seemingly so small on the gleaming arched neck of the prolific stallion, and her smile glows. Though she never personally showed any of her Saddlebreds, she closely followed the show world through the glossy pages of magazines, and she rarely missed a Kentucky State Fair.

Johnny was a selective collector of Saddlebred valuables, and this passion trickled down to me. She kept her precious original volumes of Susanne's "Famous Saddle Horses" under close guard, but liberally decorated the tack room with items that would incite hot bidding wars nowadays on eBay. Ezra Brooks whiskey decanters fashioned after five-gaited Saddlebreds, brass King's Genius doorstops, photographs of famous stallions that are the backbone of our bloodlines, pinned to the tack room wall, as though they were commonplace. And of course, stacks and stacks of breed magazines. Sitting at Johnny's scarred oak bench, cleaning bridles sporting ostentatious (but totally cool, at that time) brow bands studded with large rhinestones, she'd pour through Saddlebred magazines with us horse-crazy kids. We learned what good conformation was, and what was desirable equitation form, through her guidance and merciless drilling, straight out of Helen Crabtree's famous equitation guide. But no one was allowed to ride a horse in her barn until we'd read Happy Horsemanship, by Dorothy Henderson Pinch (Simon & Schuster, copyright 1966). She would quiz us on the book's most important points of horse smarts, until she was satisfied that we could get in the saddle with some knowledge. Today, nearly thirty years later, before any child rides solo in my barn, they have to read the same book, still in print. If they sufficiently pass my oral test, they get to ride with my very own vintage rhinestone bridles.

Trainers, breeders, owners, and exhibitors alike have all experienced a catalyst that sparked a passion for this breed.

Each of us has known someone — or some horse — who influenced us to become Saddlebred enthusiasts. Trainers, breeders, owners, and exhibitors alike have all experienced a catalyst that sparked a passion for this breed. Even those in our industry who have "been in it forever" have someone to thank for their beginnings. Telling our stories helps us all to feel a bit more connected, and gives us a chance to voice appreciation to those who inspired us to promote and enjoy the American Saddlebred.

Jim Aikman

Mr. Aikman has a Saddlebred industry service record that would roll out like Santa's list, but where exactly did he get his start in Saddlebreds? It was a combination of the family business and lucky proximity. "My mother and father owned a livery stable for many years, so horses were a part of our life. Eventually we moved to Indianapolis, where there was a farm just up the road from us where we could rent a stall."

His parents thought it was time to invest in a horse, so they bought a $100 gelding that did five gaits, from the highly respected Bottom Brothers Stable. "He could rack as slick as they came," reflects Mr. Aikman fondly. "We all rode him. And we were only eight miles from Dorothy Thomas' Stable, who had the great Indiana Ace breeding stallion. Eventually I went there to have formal lessons."

True to his historian nature, Mr. Aikman was able to produce a photograph of him riding triple on his first Saddlebred gelding with two childhood friends. Incidentally, Mr. Aikman owes a debt of gratitude to that grand little horse for gifting him with such fond memories of the girl in the picture, because, 71 years later, "That same girl is now my lady friend."

Melinda and Melissa Moore

Being born of equine training royalty, it might be easy to guess the source of Tom Moore's daughters' inspiration to become Saddlebred trainers, breeders, and judges. But was there a particular horse that cemented them to this breed?

"Silver Sensation was a steel gray gelding at the barn," says Melinda. "When I was very little, I was always anxious to get out there, and he was my favorite. He'd lay down in his stall all the time; if he wasn't being worked or standing in the cross-ties, he'd prefer to be laying down. I'd go into his stall and climb up on his back and sit there. Sometimes he'd stand up and I'd just hold onto his mane and go with him."

The image is easy to conjure, and an experience the likes of which so many of us have experienced in childhood. From her father Melinda learned the practice of treating her horses like family.

"Like he did, I go to the barn at night and check on them all. I really live with my horses."

Melinda's sister Melissa remembers fondly watching the famed gaited mare <sup>CH</sup>Belle Elegant in the Five-Gaited World's Grand Championship with Jack Nevitt in 1975. "To me she was the epitome of a great gaited horse. I loved that mare; she was amazing!"

Three years later the mare came back to whoop the boys again in the Gaited stake, winning another World's Grand Championship with Ed Teater.

As an adult, Melissa Moore was thrilled to pilot Twice Charmed — a great granddaughter of <sup>CH</sup>Belle Elegant — to numerous wins, including the 2007 American Royal Five-Gaited Championship.

Don Harris

Everyone recognizes the name and fame that is Don Harris, but perhaps not all know the interesting start to his brilliant equine career. The son of a coal miner, he learned from his father how to train by working the mules that were expected, as part of their everyday job, to navigate long, steep slopes down into the mines. "My father was a natural born horseman," comments Mr. Harris, who clearly inherited the genes. Local farmers would send their rough broncs to Mr. Harris to break as a kid.

His passion for horses came along his maternal side, too. "My mother knew a horse. She sat on more hard bleacher seats between basketball and horse shows to watch me." Mr. Harris will tell you, "My first Saddlebred was a three-gaited pony who could go five-gaited. The first time I showed him, my father told me, 'Now, when you win, you tell them this is a racking pony, and then you go and rack him around that ring.'" And that was the day that the modern-day victory pass was born.

“ My mother knew a horse. She sat on more hard bleacher seats between basketball and horse shows to watch me.”

Dr. Alan Raun

Frontman for Reedannland Farm in Cumming, Iowa, Dr. Raun thanks Merrill White for his introduction to Saddlebreds.

“He let me practice a lot with the Hackney ponies, and they opened the door to the Saddlebreds for me.” Perhaps best known for his success with the late great breeding stallion Phi Slama Jama, Dr. Raun certainly impacted the Saddlebred industry with his dedication to the breed. His present breeding operation carries on the tradition of standing quality stallions that produce winning show horses.

Joan Hamilton

The Kalarama Farm professional thanks her father for igniting an interest in American Saddlebreds. As a boy he enjoyed riding a neighbor’s Saddle Horses, and he always imagined himself having such a horse some day. “When my father and I finally went out to buy one together, he selected a Saddlebred. If I hadn’t had dad to stoke that interest, I probably wouldn’t have horses. I’m lucky.” Now at the helm of the farm that brought the prolific World’s Champion Harlem Globetrotter to the breeding industry, Hamilton and her staff will be foaling out well over 40 select mares this year.

Carson Kressley

This dapper star of modern television programs may lead a busy lifestyle but he never fails to support the breed. Who sparked his interest in Saddlebreds? “I have to thank my Grandmother, Pauline Kressley, for getting me involved with Saddlebreds. She was a major Shetland and Hackney Pony breeder. Of course, when you grow up around literally hundreds of ponies, all you want is a horse!” We are lucky to have such a popular proponent for the breed who is just as fun to watch both in and out of the show ring.

Elisabeth Goth

As a child, Elisabeth Goth spent two summers at riding camp at Bobbin Hollow Farm. “I still have all my letters home, mostly asking for money for candy, yammering about Roy, the pony I cared for, and complaining about having to canter ‘Cinnamon.’”

Like so many horse-crazy kids, she spent every Saturday at the barn, doing anything to spend time around the horses, from cleaning tack to mucking stalls.

“My parents purchased Saddle Seat Equitation (by Helen Crabtree), which I read often enough to memorize every word and picture,” she remembers fondly. She also recalls riding a Morgan named Johnny Appleseed, who was instrumental in providing a firm foundation for her riding. At the same show barn, however, were American Saddlebreds.

“The show barn had two Saddle Horses that mesmerized me; a grey called Wild Thing and a gaited mare named Rainbow.” At the age of nine, a young Ms. Goth moved to California and found a saddleseat barn that happened to have Morgans, and it would be some time before she was again exposed to Saddlebreds. Then, in 1981, “I went to the Phoenix Horse Show, and that’s where I saw <sup>CH</sup>Sky Watch and Michele; she showed her fancy pleasure horses and a team of Hackneys, too, and WOW!”

Later, Bob Lewis gave Elisabeth a chance to ride Dare You All, a horse that was a consistent winner in California gaited classes. “That was something,” she remarks, “that feeling of power, and speed, and such willingness.

this feeling inside of me...” She doesn’t need to further explain, because we’ve all felt that feeling.

Shortly thereafter, Ms. Goth began riding with Gayle Lampe on a horse named My Crown Royal. That same year, she traveled with Christine Broder and Gayle Lampe to Rock Creek, where Mitchell Clark showed her two of Michele Macfarlane’s horses, Cameo’s Angel Wings and New York New York. “I came back two weeks after Rock Creek, and my mother bought them for me. I credit my trainer of many years, Garn Walker, with giving me the skill set necessary to be able to ride a horse like New York New York. I showed him at Louisville in 1986 and we were Reserve World Champion of Championships (in the Five-Gaited Amateur Stallion/Gelding), with a huge ovation, and Angel Wings won her division of the Three-Year-Old Three-Gaited. My fate as a die hard, obsessed Saddlebred fan was thus sealed!”

All of that devotion to riding from an early age paid off; Elisabeth Goth made it into the revised edition of Saddle Seat Equitation.

Gene and Annalize van der Walt

South African roots grow as deeply as their love of Saddlebreds for this husband and wife team at Singing Hills Stable. Says Annalize van der Walt, "My dad bred Percherons, so I was always around horses. The first time I ever saw a Saddlebred was a picture in a magazine, and I instantly knew that that was what I wanted."

When she was 12 years old her father bought her an Indiana Ace bred mare that was the first of many Saddlebred loves. Like Annalize, her husband Gene was also struck by the beauty of the breed, watching a horse show in the early 80s. "I saw a man named A.P Keyter show a horse, and it had a profound impact on me. The beauty and motion of that picture they made... he's the reason I went to work with Saddlebreds."

Cynthia Hecht

This lifelong contributor served as the Historian, Archivist, Pedigree Analyst and Staff Writer for the ASHA, as well as the curator for the American Saddlebred Museum. As a teenager in the 1950s she enjoyed showing Quarter Horses. One year when showing at the Cow Palace in San Francisco, California, she saw a sight to behold in the warm up ring, which was right next to her stalls. Hecht recalls, "I glanced in there and saw a liver chestnut gelding with a long silver tail motoring along at a tremendous speed. He was warming up for the Five-Gaited Championship. I dashed back to my father and said I'd just seen the most beautiful horse in the world and wanted to watch the class, so we went back to our box. There was a workout for first between that horse and the best horse Bob Lewis had at the time, Richarl Juan. The winner was <sup>CH</sup>Song of Norway, son of <sup>CH</sup>Sweetheart On Parade, with Jim B. Robertson up for Mrs. William P. Roth." Even then Ms. Hecht had a knack for recognizing quality in Saddlebreds. "I said to my father, 'I WANT one of those!'" Eventually he bought Maitani (5th dam of 2006 Five-Gaited World's Grand Champion <sup>CH</sup>He's The Man) for me. She was related to <sup>CH</sup>Song of Norway, from Mrs. Roth's breeding program. Hers was the first pedigree I ever researched, and I was hooked on the history of the Saddlebred then."

Scott Matton at the 2010 World's Championship Horse Show.

Scott Matton

"My dad trained horses; I grew up in it," the Wisconsin based trainer credits his parentage. "Both my mom and dad gave lessons; equitation was a big deal. Back then everyone did equitation; it was just what you did before you went on to performance horses."

Being the boss's son, however, didn't mean he got any coddling around the barn. "I didn't get lessons; I learned it through the school of experience."

One particular horse taught him invaluable riding know-how. "There was a horse named Nancy's Happiness Is. He was tough; touchy; you rode him like you were riding on raw eggs," he remembers. "He's the horse that taught me how to ride to stay alive. That horse had absolutely no self-preservation, and I had to ride to keep the both of us safe."

Perhaps it could be said that this horse was the catalyst for the respect and love of equitation that Mr. Matton successfully campaigns in his training and riding program today. "He taught me how to bend my legs, how to feel the horse better, and how to know how a horse thinks. He especially taught me what they won't tolerate, and that you can't dominate them."

Like his father, Matton has built a strong riding and training program with his wife Carol at Knollwood Farm. "I married my best friend, and she understands the dedication and hard work that comes with this business."

Misdee Wrigley Miller

This well known and widely admired amateur will credit Don Harris as her catalyst to becoming involved in this breed. "I was asked to show a National Show Horse five-gaited horse at a championship show, but I'd never ridden a gaited horse. The mare's trainer knew Don and asked if I could take some lessons before the show. He put me on Arista (Arista GSM), and I was hooked!" Today, Miller contributes significantly to the breed, and is a dedicated exhibitor whose talent in this sport is born of a genuine love of the horses.

(My dad) taught me to stay diversified, so I try not to look at myself as one-dimensional."

Howard Schatzberg

His photographer crouch is well-known on the green shavings and in countless different horse shows around the country. He got his start at his father Jack Schatzberg's side, shooting open breed shows in California.

"I just loved it. My dad was the first photographer to have a mobile lab for developing at the shows. He taught me to stay diversified, so I try not to look at myself as one-dimensional. I like photographing all different breeds, but Saddlebreds make my work particularly exciting. Catching that perfect victory pass shot is very rewarding."

Fred Sarver

A well known breeder and lifelong advocate for the American Saddlebred horse, Sarver grew up in a small town in Bluefield, West Virginia. Not far from him on the Virginia border was the historic Leatherwood Farm, established by the Tierney brothers in 1938. As a teenager he boarded a horse there and eventually became an employee mowing grass, cleaning stalls, and other chores.

Leatherwood proved to be for Sarver the working environment where a special mentorship opened the door for a career in the breeding business. Dr. James P. Bailey, a graduate of the Ohio State University Veterinary School, had served as Leatherwood's farm superintendent and vet until 1951, and later while in private practice, provided routine veterinary service to the farm. Known for his integrity and selfless community service, Dr. Bailey was instrumental in giving Sarver the professional guidance necessary for learning the skills for success in all aspects of the horse breeding business. "Dr. Bailey was my mentor," says Sarver. "He was a kind man who had the ability to lead by example; he was highly principled and respected in his community. Dr. Bailey took me under his wing, and if I have any success today I owe it to him. From this man I drew my inspiration."

Lynda Freseth

Guiding equitation riders to the highest ranks for Hollow Haven Farm, Lynda Freseth's passion for Saddlebreds was fostered by her father. "My dad's passion was Saddlebreds, and he got me my first horse at age nine." In addition, the gelding's previous owner, Martha Claire Dantzler, took an active interest in young Lynda's partnership with the horse, becoming a mentor for the team at the shows.

Now at her and husband Andy's facility in Oconomowoc, Wisconsin, Lynda Freseth is thanking her father and Ms. Dantzler by paying it forward, inspiring Saddlebred passion in a new generation of riders.

Darrell Case

The elegant figure that pilots so many of Willowbank's show horses grew up having horses in his backyard. "My history teacher had Morgans and she invited me out to her farm. They had some Saddle Horses there, too."

Mr. Case started traveling in the show circuit during summers, and after starting college, decided to take a year off to become more involved with showing. Knowing Joan Lurie from the Morgan circuit, and always admiring the way she bridled a horse, he soon came under her employment. Now, 14 Willowbank years later, Mr. Case has streamlined his focus to American Saddlebreds, and his success is evident whenever he enters a ring.

Sally Jackson

This is a lifelong contributing owner and exhibitor of Saddlebreds who has loved them as long as she can remember.

"I had Rheumatic Fever as a child; I was in bed for a year. My dad told me that he'd get me anything I wanted, as long as I got well." Her father kept his promise, and Mrs. Jackson's first Saddlebred was a mare named Gypsy. "She was God's gift to little kids. Her pasture came right up to my bedroom window; I enjoyed lots of long chats with her!"

As her love affair with horses grew, her family bought a couple more Saddlebreds from an older gentleman that lived close to their home. "Tom Flienchaugh was his name; he used to wander down and help me with the horses when I was in grade school. He was a really good mentor for me at the time."

Certainly that childhood mentor would be impressed with the caliber of horses Jackson eventually owned, including the late great two-time World's Grand Champion, <sup>CH</sup>Wild-Eyed And Wicked.

Wyatt and Christine DeHart

Kentucky based trainer Wyatt DeHart was bitten by the horse bug at an early age, but didn't purchase his first American Saddlebred until age 15. He jumped in with both feet, however, meeting the challenge of horse ownership head-on when he selected a five-gaited stallion. That horse was instrumental in Mr. DeHart's learning to train a gaited horse.

His wife Christine fell in unconditional love with Saddlebreds as a young girl riding at Ross Drake Stables, under the direction of Max Parkinson, whose enthusiasm for the horses was contagious for Christine.

"I have fond memories of that time in my life because I formed a unique bond and communication with the horses."

Romy Ackerberg

A Minnesota-based breeder and exhibitor, Romy Ackerberg was struck — as so many are — by the beauty of the American Saddlebred breed in the pages of a book. Following her pressing intuition she sought out the nearest physical examples of the breed, going to see the stallion Farr's Thunder Road in the flesh at Bob Jensen's stable, not far from her home. "My breath was taken away. I was hooked immediately."

When she bought her first Saddlebred, she says, "She gave me two hundred percent every time I got on her." The owner of Ro & Me Inc. thanks the late David Farr for sparking her passion to later become a breeder. "David had an encyclopedic knowledge of bloodlines, and before he died, I promised him that I'd take care of his horses."

After a brief ownership by an investment buyer, the World's Champion producing breeding stallion Trust Fund came into her possession some time after Farr's death. The rest, as they say, is history.

Joellen Fisher Blount

Like many others, Blount was involved in a different breed entirely before the lure of the Saddlebred sparked her interest. "I started with Arabians with trainer Sullivan Davis, who also worked Saddlebreds, so I saw them being worked at his barn. Then watching Isabel Robson showing Saddlebreds really made an impact on me."

She also credits the late Kaye Ladd for inspiring her to become so heavily involved in our breed. An accomplished amateur exhibitor, Ms. Blount enjoys owning an impressive string of show horses, but remembers one horse in particular that made an unforgettable impression. "Back in the 70s I saw <sup>CH</sup>Finisterre's Gift of Love show, and I will never forget it. She was black, and she was beautiful."

Today the Lexington, Kentucky resident owns — among many — a lovely black mare of her own, <sup>CH</sup>She's My Desire BH, that epitomizes the style and grace of the Walk/Trot horse.

Victoria Gillenwater

This willowy smiling beauty is easy to spot at any Saddlebred event, and her enthusiasm for showing is contagious. "My 'Papaw' Horace Bedwell bought me a western saddle and built a sawhorse for it until I could someday have a horse of my own. He would take me horseback riding in the mountains every Sunday. He never got to see me own or show a horse, but I will never forget that he is the one who started something great."

Ms. Gillenwater is a long-time exhibitor and dedicated Saddlebred promoter whose horses — if they could — would tell you just how much they love their owner.

Nelson Green

As a youth growing up in the Carolinas, trainer Nelson Green saw his first Saddlebred at one of the local riding stables. "They just struck me as being so beautiful and explosive, but at the same time, controllable."

In his late teens he was inspired to get professionally involved with Saddlebreds after seeing a gaited horse by the name of Sam Spade show at the Charlotte horse show. "I just thought he was breathtaking," recalls Mr. Green.

The Contender was another horse that, piloted by Tom Moore, made a big impression. "I decided to work for (Tom) so that I could be around those kinds of horses." He goes on to say that he was drawn to the general atmosphere of a barn. "The people and customers made it an enjoyable place to work, and that was another thing that inspired me to become a professional."

George Knight drove HS Dignitary to the blue ribbon in the $3,000 Three-Year-Old Fine Harness Stallion/Gelding (Division I) at the 2009 World's Championship Horse Show.

George Knight

Never underestimate the importance of a riding academy, because even great trainers bloom from such surroundings. "I grew up in a riding academy at Parker's Ranch in Cleveland, Ohio, and across from it was a Saddlebred farm." Of course we all know where the grass is always greener.

Watching from the academy where he frequently rode as an 11-year-old boy, George saw some remarkable animals. "I saw these horses with real high motion and high set heads. So I went across the road to see them, and met the owner, Harvey Turley." It was the beginning of a beautiful mentorship. "He taught me how to gait horses, like my first Saddlebred, Naughty But Nice." Mr. Turley and George Knight formed a lifelong friendship. "He died in my arms," Mr. Knight adds, and it's clear to him that the moment was as much an honor as a sorrow.

One can be sure that upon looking down at George Knight, one of only three trainers to date that has won World's Grand Championship titles in all three stakes, Harvey Turley smiles with pride.

Shawn Stachowski

The last few years have seen some exciting new faces in the show ring, and Shawn and James Stachowski have stood proudly in the spotlight. But with a firm, successful foothold in the Arabian world, how did they get the itch for Saddlebreds?

“Actually the horse that made me love Saddlebreds was a Half-Arabian named Indecent Proposal,” Mrs. Stachowski says. “He looked and acted like he was one hundred percent Saddlebred! He had a great and very prolific career. A grandson of Will Shriver and Supreme Sultan. He made me love Saddlebreds!”

She speaks for her husband Jim and remarks that in training many successful Half-Arabians, his transition to full Saddlebreds was simple. “It was almost natural for him to love Saddlebreds.”

Lillian and Raymond Shively

When asked what drew Lillian Shively to the Saddlebred breed, she will tell you, “Oh, this is simple. I married into it!” In reference to husband Raymond, she says, “I married the love of my life, and he bought me my first Saddlebred.”

Mr. Shively was born in Tennessee, the son of a golf pro. “There was a barn right next the golf course that had Saddlebreds. It belonged to Earl Teater.” Well, how’s that for fortunate proximity?!

Mr. Shively showed his first horse at the age of nine. Of their career in horses, Mrs. Shively remarked, “I’ve never regretted a minute of it.” Something tells me that this well-paired team feels the same about their marriage.

Laurel Nelson

When she’s not wearing her President hat for the American Saddlebred Museum or serving as Chair on the Judging Initiative Committee, Laurel Nelson is an avid owner and exhibitor in the breed.

“My mother grew up in Chicago and was by all accounts as horse-crazy as I am. She rode Saddlebreds in the park. She found a stable very nearby to our home that had Saddlebreds, and soon after I started riding there, I had my first one, The Kentucky Barrister. I showed him in Equitation 10 and Under. My mom died nearly 20 years ago; I really wish she could have come to Louisville to see me ride. My father too; he’s been gone for quite a while.”

Having such supportive parents instilled in Nelson a life-long love and loyalty to the animals themselves.

“I tend to fall in love with them. I have my first gaited horse, Harlem’s Prince Charming, here at home. He’s 25 and still full of it; he’s been a wonderful friend through the last 17 years.”

Lynne Trenerly

Arizona resident at Freeman Saddlebreds, Lynne Trenerly takes Saddlebreds seriously, and it shows in her efforts in equine events and at their Chino Valley facility.

She frequently leads public education presentations spotlighting the breed's attributes, particularly their historical importance and present day diversity.

Trenerly and partner Norm Freeman stand the stallion Winsdown Black Gold, a fluid, leggy athlete that stamps his colts with natural talent and trainability.

It was side by side with her father that she caught Saddlebred fever as a girl, initially with "every little girl's dream of a snow white Arabian horse... my father bought him for me when I was about six years old. Then we went to a show that had a Saddlebred division as well as Arabians." They were struck by the long-necked peacocks of the show ring. "When my father saw the Saddlebreds, he said, 'Why would anyone want an Arabian when they can have one of those?!' I agreed, and my Arabian was sold."

Of course, Trenerly still appreciates Arabs, but to this day she prefers Saddlebreds. "It's a true story. My father and I still talk about that!"

gripped it with a surprisingly strong grasp, I felt myself steady. "What do you have there, kiddo?" she asked, spying the old photo album I'd brought along. I pulled up a chair beside her and leaned over her metal bed railing, opening up the pages of the past.

Over the next two hours we looked and laughed through years' worth of photographs, Johnny reliving time through the images of horses and young people that had passed through her stable doors. When the last page was turned, she looked up from the album, taking in the foreign surroundings of the sparse room. "This isn't home," she said, confusion and alarm making her voice shaky. But when her eyes came back to me, she smiled again. Her confusion momentarily cleared. "You're all grown up, Jenny. You have children now. Tell me about your family."

We began to speak in the present

Mitch Clark

The grandson of the famed Garland Bradshaw was most likely genetically predestined to be a horseman. As soon as the toddler Clark could straddle a horse, he rode in front with Bradshaw's capable hands holding him secure in the saddle. "I grew up in a neat environment, and learned the association of hard work with good results. Had my grandfather been a mediocre trainer, I might not have chosen this line of work for myself, but he really was good at it. You could see the change he could instill in horses."

There was no coddling for Mitch Clark despite being in a barn full of champions. "If I wanted to show, I had to be the one to break and train that horse. There wasn't any glamour. My grandfather demonstrated the meaning of dedication." Now that he has twin "colts" of his own, it will be Garland Bradshaw's training and work ethic that trickles down through Mitch Clark to his boys, Mitchell and Garland.

day. In her window of clarity I told her how much I cherished my years growing up with her, that I'd become a Saddlebred breeder thanks to her influence. She expressed her pride that I was so involved with Saddlebreds, and this meant more to me than any blue ribbon ever could. At the end of that visit, I told her I was leaving to compete in a Minnesota horse show the next day. She held her hand up and crossed two fingers. Then my Saddlebred mentor smiled and said, "Good luck. Remember that it's the ride, not the ribbon. And when you're in the saddle, don't forget to THIMK."

K.J. "Johnny" Hanamann died the next day. She passed on to me and so many others the love of the breed, the fastidiousness of good horse husbandry, and the foundation of a great beginning.

I'm doing my best to pay it forward.

~ For everyone's "Johnny"

Saddlebreds Continue to Excel in Distance Riding Competitions

Two American Saddlebreds, All The Money (affectionately known as Cash) and Far Field Hustle Time, continue to beat out their Arabian competitors in 25-mile Limited Distance (LD) competitions.

Most recently, at the Bar H/True Grit ride in Perris, California, Cash took first place, with Hustle Time taking second. The ride was 25 miles, and both horses came in approximately 10 minutes ahead of the third place finisher. Both horses have been competing in LD for the past year, and nearly always come in the top 10; both have come in first, and Cash has two “Best Condition” honors under his saddle.

How did they begin their careers? All The Money was the 1998 World’s Champion weanling who went on to be the Western States Horse Expo Breed Ambassador. Carlos and Lisa Sideman purchased him from Barbara Molland in 2005, to ride trails, and got him into the Parelli program, in which he is a Level 3.

Far Field Hustle Time was trained in saddleseat but never took to it. The Sidemans purchased him in 2004, also as a trail horse. Lisa Sideman was interested in competing, so after reading about Wing Tempo, the American Saddlebred that held the record for the most North American Trail Riding Conference (NATRC) Competitive Trail (CT) miles, she entered the “boys” in their first competition, the Bonelli Park Ride.

The two did well, both placing in the top 4. Cash placed first on their second ride (which was sponsored by the Arabian Horse Association!). A CT ride is either 25 or 35 miles long, and is a pace, not a race. Competitors may not finish the 25-mile ride before 5.5 hours, or later than 6 hours, without incurring a penalty. Lisa and Carlos found they were holding their horses back, so they entered them in their first American Endurance Ride Conference (AERC) 25-mile LD race. LD is an endurance race of less than 50 miles. The two placed 34 and 35 out of 101 riders, and Cash took Best Condition over all other competitors — with a perfect vet card.

They finished in a little over 4 hours. Carlos was holding Hustle Time back the whole time and decided that in the next race, to let him go. The result was a first place finish for Hustle Time, with Cash finishing just two spots behind, in third, and once again earning Best Condition. Both finished in under 3.5 hours.

Saddlebreds are well suited for distance riding, with their long strides, large hearts, thin skin and lean muscles. To condition for a 25-mile CT or LD, it is important that a horse is ridden several times a week at long, slow trots. Once they are in shape, it is important that they not be overtrained. Some hill work is also beneficial, but the main goal is to get their muscles stretched and that during the months of May and June this year, the fee for all registrations received or postmarked during this amnesty period will remain set at $45, regardless of the horse's age. An Application for Registration form can be found at www.asha.net/files/applicationforregistration.pdf.

Amnesty will also be granted for Transfer late fees during this period. The standard $50 Transfer fee will still apply to all transfers; however, any late fees accrued at the usual $10-per-month rate will not be assessed for transfers received or postmarked during this period. A Transfer Report form can be found at www.asha.net/files/transferform.pdf.

It should be noted that, along with the necessary registration or transfer documentation, the full $45 Registration or $50 Transfer fee must also be received or postmarked during this period, in order to qualify. Also, this one-time limited offering of amnesty is for late fees only. If applicable, any other registry fees will still be required (DNA testing, unregistered foal transfers, affidavits for lost certificates, etc).

Once this amnesty period has passed, the standard fee schedule will resume for both registrations and transfers.

American Saddlebreds Down Under

Contributed by ASHA member, Tania Paget, of Queensland, Australia

Interest in the American Saddlebred in Australia has definitely increased on the back of some wonderful breed displays and shows recently held in Queensland.

In April and May of this year, there have been three Saddlebred promotion Displays held in different areas, including an equine expo, an Arabian show and a Heavy (Draft) Horse Field Day. Each display offered a unique and new perspective of the American Saddlebred, with much renewed interest created in the breed.

We have also had some local purebred American Saddlebreds competing in American Saddlebred show classes for the first time in years. These horses generated a great deal of interest in the breed, especially when they competed in the large open breed classes with such great success!

Recently several purebred American Saddlebreds have found new homes in prominent top level competition stables for Dressage, Show Jumping, Eventing, Endurance and Combined Driving.

There are more American Saddlebred classes being offered at local shows over the next few months, and plans are underway for more American Saddlebred breed displays and promotions throughout the coming year.

The future for the American Saddlebred breed in Australia is looking very bright!

American Saddlebred Horse Association of Connecticut By Sharon Ellingwood

The American Saddlebred Horse Association (ASHA) of Connecticut has had an extremely active and successful year. Membership and participation in club activities have grown in numbers and strength this year as we work hard to reach out to American Saddlebred enthusiasts across all disciplines. Membership includes World's Champion performance horses in traditional saddleseat divisions, to those who enjoy their American Saddlebred with just as much enthusiasm via a quiet trail ride through the beautiful Connecticut countryside. We welcome all American Saddlebred enthusiasts, whether they currently own and show or just enjoy being a spectator. The annual year-end banquet recognizes many divisions, from the multi-day USEF rated A level, to one-day shows for beginners, acade-

For the 2010 show season, the UPHA Chapter 14 — which includes New England, New York and Canada — voted the ASHA of Connecticut Summer Classic Horse Show as their Chapter Honor Show of the year. It was a privilege to receive the award from peers in the industry. In 2010 the horse show benefited the UPHA 2011 Convention: Boston Unites.

The Connecticut Summer Classic Horse Show is held in the beginning of August, and is a favorite summer show of many, as well as a last stop of many world class contenders on their way to the World's Championship Horse Show held annually in Louisville, Kentucky, in late August.

Top rated activities at the horse show have ranged from pizza parties, surprise lunches, a complimentary ice cream social, daily coffee and a dessert party, a wildly popular children's Treasure Hunt, and a tradition of top management and officials from around the country drawing a competitive field of entries. A full slate of academy entries is offered, and other fun classes have been developed for geriatric horses. There is a class for everyone.

The Connecticut Summer Classic Horse Show has benefited Saddlebred Rescue, Inc., for many years, and will again in 2011. Saddlebred Rescue is valued for their service to older and needy horses who require a helping hand to escape hard times or being shipped to slaughterhouses for human consumption. Many ASHA of Connecticut lesson barns are home to Saddlebred Rescue horses who give daily riding and driving lessons. Our club also donates the proceeds from our teacup raffle and silent auction — held at the annual banquet — to Saddlebred Rescue.

Other recent key points of service have included:

- Sponsorship of Boston Unites: UPHA Convention 2011 evening activities.

- Creation of first ever UPHA Convention Youth Activity: Ice Skating on Boston Common Frog Pond.

- Development of www.asha-ct.org and ASHA of Connecticut Facebook page: sharing club information in real time.

- Equine Affaire (Massachusetts): Volunteer effort providing horses for Saddlebred demonstrations, manpower to staff ASHA info booth to many thousands of equine enthusiasts, and participation by Connecticut lesson barns, in an effort to give away a free introductory riding lesson to lucky raffle winners.

- Sponsorship of UPHA Chapter 14 Spring Premiere Horse Show, and American Royal.

- Annual calendar fundraiser, featuring faces of ASHA horse and rider stars 365 days a year!

- Development and promotion of Youth Activities, including the newly formed and very active Wildwood Shaky Tails Youth Group affiliated with the ASHA.

Most of the aforementioned listed items will continue for 2011, with more emphasis on the Equine Affaire and promoting how owners enjoy American Saddlebreds in our state, by bringing them to the public and showcasing what they can do.

We welcome your membership and participation. Please consider supporting the efforts of the ASHA of Connecticut with a sponsorship of a class at the Connecticut Summer Classic Horse Show. Sponsorship forms can be found on our Facebook page, or at www.asha-ct.org.

Turn your Feed Bags into Scholarships for Our Youth!

Youth Clubs are asked to help support our ASHA Youth Scholarships by participating in our ASHA Triple Crown Scholarship Contest, where the clubs compete against each other by collecting the proof of purchases from Triple Crown and Southern States Legends horse feed bags.

We can even earn money for bulk purchases of feed by submitting the original copy of the delivery ticket! Ask your neighbors and those large barns in your area you've been dying to see to save them for you. The proofs of purchases will need to be submitted under your club name to the ASHA for tabulation.

The club earning the most money toward the scholarships will be recognized and awarded at each of our Triple Crown shows — Lexington Junior League, World's Championship Horse Show and the UPHA American Royal Horse Show.

Valid proofs of purchase include Triple Crown 10% & 14% Performance, Lite, Low Starch, Senior, Growth, Complete, 12% & 30% Supplements, Triple Crown Grass Forage, Alfalfa Forage, Safe Starch Forage, Southern States and Legends Horse Feeds. More brands may be added as we enhance the program.

ASHA Youth Clubs may participate in this contest by contacting Brenda Newell at 859-475-1461 or b.newell@asha.net.

Temporary Access Now Offered to Saddlebred.com

By William Wood Jr.

In order to provide its members and non-members with access to as much information and features as possible, we'd like to tell you about the following recent additions and updates to the ASHA website.

Temporary online access

We are excited to announce a new feature available to the general public on saddlebred.com: temporary online access! We have had many questions from non-members about this capability, and we are proud to announce that any non-member now has the opportunity to purchase a temporary online pass.

We offer a temporary one day pass, or one week pass. Anything longer than this would be financially reasonable to warrant a full membership, so we felt that a week was long enough for temporary access. The cost for a one-day pass for research purposes is $10, and a week-long temporary pass is $30.

The primary distinction between temporary access and full memberships is access to member-only features. Temporary users have access to three research based tools: Pedigree searches, hypothetical matings, and former names. If a non-member simply needs to research a few pedigrees, he or she now has the opportunity to quickly purchase a day or week pass, look up some information, and not have to worry about full annual memberships, long term login information, etc.

It should be noted that these temporary visitors do not have access to the social aspects of the saddlebred.com website, nor do they have access to "My Membership" features such as trail ride tracking or retiring of horses.

Visitors will not have access to search ASHA's online member directory, view the online American Saddlebred Reference Directory or correspondence & responses. We felt that these tools should only be available to full members, as the purpose of the temporary pass is primarily horse-related research.

We have provided an easy to find link

The screenshot shows the Saddlebred.com website interface. At the top, there's a banner for '2010 WORLD'S GRAND CHAMPIONS' featuring images of horses and riders. Below the banner is a navigation menu with links like ASHA, Registry, Competitions, etc. The main content area is titled 'Temporary User Account'. It includes a 'Log Out' button, a 'CHANGE PASSWORD' section with a form for entering a new password and type, and a 'Save Password' button. To the right, there's a text box explaining that temporary users have limited access and lists three options: 1) Pedigree Search, 2) Hypo Mating, and 3) Former Names. Below this, there's a link to become a full member. At the bottom, there's a copyright notice and a 'Authorized User Access' link.

The screenshot shows the membership selection page on Saddlebred.com. It starts with a section titled 'How are you involved with the Saddlebred Community?' with a sub-instruction 'Please choose at least one'. There are checkboxes for Owner, Breeder, Trainer, Professional, Amateur, Veterinarian, Farmer, and Other. Below this is a section titled '2) Choose your membership type:' which lists several membership options with their respective costs. The '1-Week Online Research Pass (Temporary)' is highlighted in yellow with a cost of $30.00, and the '1-Day Online Research Pass (Temporary)' is also highlighted in yellow with a cost of $10.00. Below the membership options is a section titled '3) Supply Credit Card Information:' which includes fields for Credit Card Number, Expiration Date (with dropdown menus for month and year), and Card CVV Code. There is a 'Submit Information' button at the bottom.

New temporary access to Saddlebred.com is intended for users seeking to do horse related research such as pedigree searching, hypothetical matings and former names.

for these visitors to obtain memberships. We hope that with this new capability, we will cater to an audience that doesn't necessarily require the full resources of an annual membership, but is interested in doing some quick research.

Please let us know what you think about this new feature! If you have any future requests for such features, or would like to comment on this new temporary pass feature, please let us know at webmaster@asha.net, or directly to William Wood Jr., at w.wood@asha.net.
