ASHA Member of the Day

This ASHA Member Of The Day and her family have been staples of the American Saddlebred industry for decades from their Connecticut farm. She is a second generation exhibitor, following in the footsteps of her mother, June Larson, another well-known exhibitor.

Growing up in the business, she became quite an accomplished rider in several divisions, showing at all the great Northeast shows when they were in their prime: the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden, Eastern States, Farmington, and Penn National among them. With her equitation horse Clearview Michelle she was reserve in the National Finals. She also showed several gaited horses as a junior exhibitor, including the Bill Beckley trained Finery's Decision. As a trainer and instructor she has had such stars as Erin Nelli, Katie Couch, Beth Leach, Stevie Bagdasarian, Bianca Tonetti, Mighty Temptation, Summit Up, Champagne Party, Sultan's Private Property and The Petite Princess.

She passed that love on to her daughter who became a Triple Crown equitation champion and eventually her granddaughter, a World's Champion of Champions Senior Saddle Seat Equitation rider who represents the fourth generation of Cedarledge Farm.

While the family has enjoyed show ring success, it is our honoree's participation in many other areas of the industry that makes her so deserving of our Member Of The Day status. She became a well-respected judge and clinician, giving back over and over with those duties. She is also a longtime participating member of UPHA Chapter 14, being involved with the many projects that Chapter has led the way with over the years.

Lynn McNamara (Connecticut)

Always thinking of others, our honoree has played a major role in the UPHA Exceptional Challenge Cup, which is held at the American Royal. The smile on her face as these special riders compete each year is something none of us can ever forget. Her newest project for the breed is the UPHA Ribbons of Service program, again working with youth and instilling in them the values of appreciation for all that they have, while helping others.
