

THE BRUCE HANSON AMERICAN SADDLEBRED WELFARE GRANT APPLICATION

The Bruce Hanson American Saddlebred Welfare Grant is named in honor of the late Bruce Hanson. Bruce had a great concern for the welfare of the American Saddlebred, and through Bruce's efforts, the American Saddlebred Horse & Breeders Association ("ASHBA") Equine Welfare Advocacy Committee (the "Committee") was established. Bruce served as the chairman of the Committee and made the first contribution in support of this grant program.

The purpose of a Bruce Hanson American Saddlebred Welfare Grant is to promote and support the welfare of American Saddlebreds that might otherwise be in jeopardy. To receive a grant, Applicants must demonstrate their activities in support of the welfare of the American Saddlebred and how the grant money will be used in furtherance of these activities. The Committee expects that such grants will supplement, not substitute, fundraising efforts by the applicant.

General Instructions

Please answer each question legibly and provide as much detail as possible. The Committee's decision to award a grant will rest primarily on the contents of this application. If you need more space for any question, please attach additional sheets of paper clearly identifying the number of the question(s) you are answering.

Grants will be awarded in amounts to be determined by the Committee and on recommendation to ASHBA. Individuals and organizations that have previously received Bruce Hanson Grants must wait at least three (3) years before reapplying. All Applicants, regardless of membership status, shall be required to abide by ASHBA's Code of Conduct.

Successful Applicants will be required to complete a Progress Report and Final Evaluation Form at six (6) months and upon completion of the activities for which the grant was awarded, respectively. Not-submitting these forms may preclude an organization from receiving a grant in the future.

The Committee reviews grants in the fall of each year. All grant applications must be postmarked on or before October 14 of the current year. All applications should be sent to this address:

ASHBA Social Media Policy October 2022

Social media can make a significant difference in ASHBA's reputation and public perception. A social media policy helps encourage a positive social presence, and offers guidelines for dealing with difficult situations on social platforms.

Social media is now a public outlet for any organization's brand and reputation. However, it can be challenging to deal with, since social media moves so quickly and reaches so many people.

ASHBA's social media policy describes specific actions to take so we can respond quickly and appropriately to promote positive actions and resolve problems. Our approach always should be to behave transparently, and intentionally.

ASHBA is, purposely, made up of leaders – influencers in their areas of expertise. Our members want to hear from people they trust and respect, which is why it's important for grant recipients, as influencers, to communicate and connect with members on social media. Here are some "dos" – followed by some "don'ts."

DO:

Post accurate, positive association information on board members' own personal social media channels. Our grant recipients can promote ASHBA through our personal networks, reaching members and non-members alike. The benefit of this transparency is to show what kind of organization we are, why we welcome others, and encourage participation and growth in our breed.

Talk about the Saddlebred industry and/or ASHBA in general on social media. Feel free to share positive, interesting content about the breed and ASHBA's public (published) goals. Whether a post the grant recipients originates, or a comment made on another post, it's helpful to be active on social media in this way.

Share content that ASHBA sends to you and asks you to share on social media. It's a great way to expand our reach with very little effort.

DON'T:

Post content or comment on anything that is political or too controversial or political while you are a grant recipient of ASHBA. A grant recipient – whether they realize it or not – is always representing ASHBA, even on their personal accounts. It is easy to offend someone, and people can assume that controversial post represents the entire organization.

If someone posts something about ASHBA, is seeking a response to a question, or if they are sharing something more negative such as an accusation, the grant recipient should either defer to the ASHBA account, if content on the topic already is posted. Or, they should have a stock (generic) response to acknowledge the comment and share that they will get back with an answer. If there's nothing on ASHBA's site, please contact the executive director, board president and director of communications and marketing to assist with a response.

If you, as a grant recipient, have a strong opinion on the matter and want to differentiate from the association's stance, please include a disclaimer that makes it clear: "This is my own opinion and does not necessarily reflect ASHBA's opinion." Any response a grant recipient made on behalf of ASHBA should be vetted by executive director, board president and director of communications and marketing. Above all, any response should be accurate.

When in doubt, don't! Even if you delete comments or posts on a social media platform, they never really go away.

AMERICAN SADDLEBRED HORSE & BREEDERS ASSOCIATION

Member Code of Conduct

The American Saddlebred Horse & Breeders Association (the “Association”) is a membership corporation dedicated to safeguarding the integrity and improvement of the American Saddlebred breed, promoting the humane treatment of American Saddlebred horses, and encouraging safe practices, ethical dealings, and fair treatment in connection with horse and rider exhibition, business matters, and other activities for the horses, members, and other participants. The Board of Directors has adopted this Member Code of Conduct in furtherance of these principles and to set the standards for the ethical conduct of its members.

This Code of Conduct shall be in effect upon adoption by the Board of Directors and publication to the membership on the Association’s website www.asha.net. All members are expected at all times to conduct themselves and their activities in accordance with the Code of Conduct, including the obligations to report suspected violations and comply with any enforcement actions. Upon the request of the Association, members shall acknowledge in writing that they have read, understand, and agree to comply with the Member Code of Conduct.

Ethical Considerations

1. Animal Welfare. The welfare of American Saddlebred horses is the foremost consideration of the Association and its members. We believe that every American Saddlebred horse should be treated humanely, free from abuse and neglect.
2. Legal and Regulatory Compliance. Members are expected to comply with all applicable Federal and state laws, statutes, rules and regulations, the rules and regulations of the Association, the rules and regulations of all affiliate governing bodies, and the rules and regulations of all competitions and exhibitions and are also expected to use good faith efforts to cause others within their control (e.g., employees, agents, representatives, immediate family members) to comply.

3. Equal Opportunity. The Association is an equal opportunity employer and membership is open to all individuals on a non-discriminatory basis. Members are encouraged to adopt similar policies in their employment and business dealings.
4. SafeSport. The Association and its members seek to protect the safety, dignity, and autonomy of all participants, especially those most vulnerable to abuse or undue influence.
5. Breed Promotion. The Association and its members seek to protect the integrity of the breed and promote its development and expansion as the breed of choice of show, sport, and pleasure horse owners.
6. Sportsmanship. Members strive to always exhibit sportsmanlike behavior.
7. Fair Business Dealings. Members seek to ensure that business dealings involving American Saddlebred horses are conducted in an honest and transparent manner. Members fully disclose any conflicts of interest and all relevant facts in their business dealings.
8. Judging Standards and Impartiality. Members recognize that the evaluation and judging of American Saddlebred horses is subjective, however, it is in the best interests of the breed that judging be understandable and as impartial as possible. Accordingly, judges of USEF-recognized and Association-affiliated competitions strive to adhere to recognized judging standards for American Saddlebred horses and to avoid conflicts of interest in accepting assignments and performing their duties as judges.
9. Other Considerations. This list of ethical considerations is not exclusive and is not meant to condone other behaviors that would be considered unethical by the standards of society and the horse industry. In addition, efforts to circumvent the stated ethical considerations are themselves in violation of the Member Code of Conduct and subject to investigation and discipline.
10. Reporting and Non-retaliation. Members are expected to report concerns of violations of the Member Code of Conduct or other concerns of unethical behavior, without fear of retaliation. The Confidential Complaint Form attached to the Member Code of Conduct as Exhibit A may be used to report concerns of violations.

4083 Iron Works Parkway
Lexington, KY 40511
859-259-2742 | Fax: 859-259-1628

11. Investigation of Complaints and Fair Resolution Process. The Association takes complaints of violations of the Member Code of Conduct very seriously and will investigate all alleged violations. Except in reciprocal instances requiring automatic suspension, members will be afforded a fair and timely process to defend any allegations prior to the imposition of sanctions involving the loss of membership privileges, suspension, or revocation of membership.
12. Disciplinary Sanctions. Members found to have violated the Member Code of Conduct will be subject to discipline.

Investigation of Complaints and Fair Resolution Process.
